Roll Back Malaria Partnership

The Roll Back Malaria (RBM) Partnership was launched in 1998 by the World Health Organization (WHO), the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and the World Bank. It brings together malaria-endemic countries, their bilateral and multilateral development partners, the private sector, nongovernmental and community-based organizations, foundations, and research and academic institutions to harmonize action, mobilize resources, and coordinate partners in the worldwide fight against malaria.

The Partnership Board's main functions are to provide strategic guidance to the RBM Partnership, to ensure implementation of its work plan and to ensure increased support at the country level through engagement of the wider partnership.

The RBM board of 21 voting members and 4 non voting members, with two NGO seats, one for Northern and another for Southern NGOs. A Southern NGO in this instance is defined as an NGO registered in one or more malaria endemic countries as a local entity and actively engaged in delivering malaria control or community based health programming.

NGO constituency

The Southern NGO RBM board seat is a relatively new seat created in November 2007 to take into account the unique perspective and concerns of NGOs working in their communities against malaria and ensure that RBM policies and actions support NGO programs and address the needs of communities. In this regard, the Southern NGO delegation works in close collaboration with the Northern NGO delegation. The NGO delegation as a whole actively participates in discussions involving policy and development of positions on key issues addressed during RBM Board meetings. The Southern NGO delegation will ensure inclusion of endemic country specific concerns and interest relevant to malaria control, into the RBM Partnership discussion and policies.

The role of the Southern NGO Support Delegation is to support and advise the Board Member and Alternate Board Member on key issues and concerns of their NGO community. The Support Delegation is also responsible for the dissemination of RBM information before and after RBM Mechanisms meetings (Board, EC, Subcommittees, WGs meetings) to members of the Southern NGO constituency.

Criteria for selection

6. Willingness and ability to read or review RBM documents, communicate the issues of NGO constituency members to the NGO Delegation and disseminate information from RBM Mechanisms meetings, decisions and updates to the NGO constituency.
